

The Qualification examination in foreign languages is conducted at ISEC NAS RA by the Commission formed from the Foreign Languages Department members who are experts in the field.

The Qualification examination in foreign languages evaluates the student's written and oral communication skills and the comprehension of professional materials.

During the Qualification examination, students/applicants must be able to

1. Demonstrate the ability to read original literature on the speciality, relying on the studied language material, background country and professional knowledge, language and contextual guessing skills.
2. Translate the text on speciality from English into Armenian (Russian, Persian) in writing.
3. Reproduce a socio-political article or text from a news feed in a foreign language.
4. Discuss issues related to professional and scientific work with the members of the Commission in a foreign language.

Passing the exam, the students get the opportunity to complete the next stage of postgraduate studies and continue scientific research.