Dr. Ph.D. PAVEL MALYZHENKOV

ACTUAL POSITION

Research Fellow in the Department of Economics, Enterprise, Engineering and Social Sciences, University of Tuscia (Viterbo, Italy);

Lecturer at the Department of Information Systems and Technologies, Faculty of Informatics, Mathematics and Computer Science, National Research University "Higher School of Economics", Branch of Nizhni Novgorod, Russia. Taught courses: "Business Administration", "Theory of Organization", "Enterprise Architecture", "Introduction in Business Informatics".

Academic Head of the Master Program "Business Informatics", National Research University "Higher School of Economics", Branch of Nizhni Novgorod (Russia).

Co-chair of the International Workshop on Enterprise and Organizational Modelling and Simulation (EOMAS)

CAREER OVERVIEW

2013-2014; 2016-2017: Research Fellow in the Department of Economics and Business, University of Tuscia (Viterbo, Italy);

2011: Ph.D. in Programming and Control, University of Florence (Italy). Thesis: "The development of new organizational, management and accounting practices in Russia: comparative reflections with the Italian reality";

2003-2004; 2005-2006: Research Fellow in the Department of Business Sciences, Faculty of Economics, University of Calabria (Rende, Italy);

1999: Ph.D. in Economic Sciences, State University "Lobachevskiy" of Nizhni Novgorod (Russia). Thesis: "The forecasting of economic state of enterprises in market economy";

1996: Graduation in "Business Informatics and Automatic Systems of Business Management" (red diploma, the highest recognition), State University "Lobachevskiy" of Nizhni Novgorod (Russia). Thesis: "Application of artificial intelligence methods to low-structured business problems solution".